Walkout Favored

VANCOUVER (CP) - B.C. Hydro office employees have voted 88 per cent in favor of strike action to back their contract demands, union spokesman Fred Trotter announced Wednesday.

He said the strong strike mandate relfects the 3,300 workers' concern that they have had no salary increase

There are no immediate plans to take strike action, Trotter said. He is president of Local 378 of the Office and Technical Employees Union.

He said mediation hearings are scheduled to begin June 2 under the auspices of provincial mediator Charles Stewart.

The proposals will not be disclosed until management replies, he said, probably later today.

Results of the strike votes by the 2,800 general ferry workers and the 750 officers will be released Friday.

The dispute centres on hours of work and planned layoffs of 420 workers June 1 as a cost-cutting measure for the ferry system.

Meanwhile, the slowdown campaign which has delayed ferry sailings since last Friday is continuing.

Ferries from Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen were sailing about 30 minutes late today as ferry officers continue time consuming safety checks,

CANADA-BASED DRUG RING HIT

LONDON (Reuter) - An international drug ring with headquarters in Canada and using female couriers carry-ing specially-constructed suitcases has been broken by British and Canadian customs investigators.

Cannabis resin worth about $180,000 has been seized in England and Canada in a co-ordinated operation by both

The drug was flown from Bombay and was believed to have been intended for distribution in Britain, Canada and the Bahamas, the source said.

Female couriers arriving with suitcases at London's Heathrow Airport in recent weeks were stopped and are being questioned here. In Montreal, 18 persons are also being questioned:

A British customs spokesman said five women had n remanded here for smuggling a total of 871 pounds (395 kilos) of the drug.

Customs officers stopped and searched the first woman on May 9 and found the cannabis hidden under a false bottom in one of her suitcases.

France Eyes Call-Up For Girls

PARIS (Reuter) — Wo-men's Affairs Minister Francoise Giroud disclosed radical plans Wednesday to change the status of women in France, including national service for girls.

Mrs. Giroud's proposals, covering feminist complaints from birth to old age, are designed to end sex discrimination laws going back to Natoleon

The proposals have been approved by the cabinet, but must still be passed by Parliament. One of the proposals is that girls leaving school or about to enter university should spend four to six months in national community service.

Mrs. Giroud said this was one way of treating girls on an equal footing with boys an equal footing with boys who do national military service. It would also help girls face "the realities of life by acquiring useful experience."

MONTREAL (CP)—Price increases decreed by the federal government for Canadian crude oil will raise Air Canada's fuel bill and "will inevitably require higher fares," the president of the publicly-owned airline said Wednesday. Claude Taylor said in a statement that the price increase would add $4.8 million to this airline's fuel bill this year bringing total fuel costs for 1976 to nearly $193 million. He said further oil-price increases set for 1977 will raise Air Canada's fuel costs another $21.8 million next year. Although the airline, raised its fares by eight per cent in April, that did not take account of possible fuel price increases, Taylor said.

The government recently announced an increase of $1.05 a barrel in the well-head price of Canadian crude oil effective July 1; 1976. The price will increase a further 70 cents per barrel in March, 1977.

style of Macdonald's budget speech was almost spartan. "We are still in the the rate of inflation down. Nothing must be done to endanger its success. When there is a solid basis of achievement on the prices front, then we will have greater opportunities for action

Unfancy. Or, as Macdonald called it.

A bit complacent also, mind you. Unemployment now is the worst in 15 years, and Macdonald plainly is prepared to live with a rate of seven per cent for the rest of the year. The human costs of this will be severe, even though social security and the opportunities for other family members to find work now make the unemployment rate an inadequate measure of actual hardship. The political costs also will be severe, particularly as large numbers of college students discover they cannot find the jobs to which they expected to become accustomed.

American Shake-down

"If further policy action is needed." said Macdonald, "I will not hesitate to take it." At a guess — no, a flat prediction — Macdonald will have to do just that before the year is out, implement new employment programs, that is, in response to rising public concern about unemployment matched by declining public concern about inflation and therefore about the size of government spending.

By doing nothing at this time to cope with unemployment, nor, as some observers had suggested, to soften the impact of higher oil prices with personal tax cuts, Macdonald seems to be trying to imequivalent to the shake-down that the U.S. endured in 1974-75 and from which that country now has emerged, toughened and

This is twice what the post office deficit was in 1971 before it began rocketing upwards to the present level of $700 million.

Limited Choices

The theory of the budget is that things Canadian will be right themselves as the world becomes a better place for our exports. Inflation shows signs of easing but remains dangerous. Recovery has started but unemployment is serious enough to justify a mildly stimulatory stance. In the public economics to which we have grown accustomed, this means a $5 billion

As the minister views the situation, the choices were very limited. There was some expectation that he might announce further expenditure cuts. But the government's experience with economies has been disappointing. We now learn from the budget message that outlays of 1975-76 will be up by 18 per cent, which is two per cent more than Jean Chretien anticipated.

For 1976-77, Macdonald will need $42.2 billion which represents a growth rate of 14 per cent. Hopefully, we will be down to 11 per cent in the ensuing year.

The government contemplates a "basic change in the trend of expenditure increase," which is to be hitched to GNP, although not, apparently, to real growth. Maedonald puts it in Keynsian terms. "In a period of slow growth, it may be appropriate for government expenditures to rise more rapidly than GNP. In a period of strong expansion, government expen-

The problem is with proposition two. In flush times, we do not have chastened ministers and the political reality then is that spending runs wild.

Certain economies are expected to result next year from changes in the unemployment insurance system. Considerable savings will come from the belated change in the qualifying period from eight to 12 weeks. These will be par-tially offset by amendments intended to needs of high unemployment areas such as the Atlantic region. While the impact (dependent on legislation to be introduced by Robert Andras) will not be immediate, Macdonald hopes that the government will salvage about $200 million next year.

With hopes waning on the expenditure side, Macdonald could not risk tax concessions that would further widen his deficit The changes are so few that the document amounts to little more than a slightly amended version of the Turner budget, Even the tariff reductions are prolongations of Turner's, with macaroni and some pork products added as compensation for additional protection on tires, tubes, scissors, British compressors and electricity

There are gestures, without very serious budgetary significance, towards energy conservation. Wind power in time may be more than window dressing and the same may well be true of solar fur-naces. But Macdonald is in little danger of losing much on excise now. Even the anti-big car measures are being staged over prehension among manufacturers worried tending the 20 per cent rax rate to Canadian companies with profits of $150,000 the old figure set in 1974 was $100,000. There are minor changes in capital cost allowances favoring the computer and a few other industries. And there is a change in resource taxation, permitting any taxpayer to write off immediately 100 per cost of exploration costs.

On the side of personal income tax, however, there is only one provision that is likely to benefit most families. This is the doubling of the child care deduction for working mothers. Apart from that Mac-donald has been content with Turnertrimming, slightly improving the incentive to saving by increasing the amounts deductible for registered savings and profit-sharing plans.

Goes On and On-

It has long been apparent that there is no necessary relationship between the wordage of a budget message and the contents of a budget. While Macdonald spoke at length, touching on a variety of subjects, many of his thoughts had very little to do with our problem of ways and means. He chose the occasion, for example, to give notice of further changes in the anti-inflation program which was, of course, brought in without benefit of a budget and has since been amended out resort to a budget. The most important of these, a response presumably to union agitation, have to do with prices and will be rather stiffer (reduced from 95 to 85 per cent of base period earnings) and is to apply to each product line.

The only difficulty is in overloading the budget, no one can deny that Macdonald has paid a rare tribute to his predecessor It has become clear in the department of finance that, whatever differences may once have come between cabinet col-leagues, Turner wrote a budget for all seasons. Like our "moderate" $5 billion deficit, it goes on and on.

Not Entirely Bare

Macdonald's budget cupboard wasn't wholly bare. He announced measures that will allow the Anti-Inflation Board to prevent some firms slipping through unjustified price increases. The unemployment insurance program will be revised, for the second time within a year, to optional excise tax of up to $660.

None of this is dramatic. Nor, except for the extra penalty for gas-guzzlers and for a doubled tax deduction allowance (up to a maximum of $4,000) for child-care costs incurred by working women and macdonald no scope to make tax cuts to insingle parents, is any of it particularly im-

Could not a base be located somewhere out there, yet well within range of defense from the U.S. mainland? Being unaware of any international treaties governing the use of the seabed, it occurs to me that territorial sea limits may need to be extended. Could not the possible added costs of placing the installation underwater work also to some advantage by reducing the need for the hundreds of feet of reinforced concrete at the Bangor base? Bells in the Head

Whenever the name of God is dragged into an election, it is difficult to be solemn. It is inappropriate, it is unseemly — and anyhow one does not know what it is meant to prove. One would not have Jo of Arc to be president just because she heard bells in her head. From time to time, we all hear bells in our heads.

It is true that the Christian Democratic Party in Italy, say, has never leaned much on the name of God. But it is not entirely irrelevant to point out that its long regim has been perhaps the most corrupt and scandal ridden in post-war Europe, The sustainer of a "dolce vita" which owes very little to the Sermon on the Mount.

Moreover, the name of God makes some sense in countries which have clerical parties and a clerical tradition. Sanche de Gramont has pointed out that

God on Their Side

French birth rate. The English have of course gone one step further than the French. The attitudes of the Reformation are bred even into the English Catholic. One of the most celebrated of English Catholics in recent years, Msgr. Ronnie Knox, was once asked why, although he was a monsignor of the church, he had never been to the Vatican. He replied with imperturbability: "If one is a first-class passenger, why should one go down into the engine

But none of this applies in the United States. In spite of the separation of church and state, or because of it, there is always a tendency for the name of God when it is let loose in the political arena to get out

Since there is no one God with whom the state is in alliance, everyone is free to have his or her own God — and there are more public men in America who come forward to proclaim that they are fit for public office because they have heard bells in their heads than in any other country in the world.

I think it is depressing, and if it continues will be alarming if a serious political debate is sidetracked by matters which are of no political concern.

Take the most obvious example: I happen to think quite a lot of Jimmy Carter as a politician. I think he is a heavyweight, and America and the free world could do with a heavyweight.

I missed his interview with Bill Moyers, and asked a friend at PBS if I could watch a tape. So early one morning, in a small office, the cassette was shoved into the machine and I watched. I think that the early morning is the time to watch such an exercise. On the several times during the interview my hair curled at some of his answers. There are some things one distrusts when they are made public. Confessions are one.

Orson Welles once said that there are two things which cannot be shown on the movies: the act of prayer and the act of sex. I have no wish to be offensive to Jimmy Carter, but he should stop trying to put his act of prayer on the screen. What Orson Welles meant was that the acts of prayer and of sex are the two ultimately private acts of which we are capable. It seems to me banal, when it is not odious, to be invited to watch Carter at prayer, through a one-way window, to be a voyeur

Even if we are ready to listen to his own versions of his prayer, from "Today" in the morning until "Tonight" in the evening, then we ought to be given God's ns as well. If I were God, I would not take kindly to having my correspondence with one of my children distributed as a publicity handout. As the Bible tells us, God is a very jealous God — He needs to be, so many people take his name in vain — and as this campaign proceeds, if I were He, I would be looking around for some thunderbolts to throw

Ecstatic Torpors

But if Jimmy Carter takes us into the confessional box, and pulls aside the grille, what are we to say of Jerry Bown? (No wonder the state governments of the United States are going to pot, if their governors are always engaged in private communication with their maker.) I find the ecstatic torpors of Jerry Brown not only unacceptable in a serious politician but what we used to call "school-girlish. I often wonder if, when he is engaged in Sacramento, he is doing much more than twisting his braids with one hand, and writing excruciatingly with the other, "Dear

One is willing to let one's politicians find whatever solace they require. After all, whole, my picture of Carter was not much damaged, but the fact remains that one of the greatest of British prime ministers, W. E. Gladstone, the science in his day, used to fill his evenings by going into the streets and commun with prostitutes, saying that he was bent on their salvation — and we now know from his diaries that he returned from these nocturnal peregrinations to flagellate himself. Well, that's interesting to know, but it does not alter our picture of a very great statesman. And all of this bringing down of God into the political arena takes place in a country in which Thomas Jefferson said that it did not matter to him if his neighbor believed in one god or in 20 since it neither broke his leg nor picked his pocket. And that is exactly the trouble: in one god or in 20 and the 20 can be stretched to 20 million. As everyone thinks that he can find God within himself, or speaking to him from a clod of earth in Georgia or in a pad in California.

I happen not to believe that God exists, or ever existed. But the idea of God seems to me a rather serious one — and insofar as we contemplate the idea of Him, it seems to me also that He must be allowed to be what a friend of mine calls some of his friends, a "rather superior person." He is not easily accessible, and the encounters with Him of the saints and mystics, whose accounts we can trust tell of terrible acts of self-immolation as well as almost torturing moments of ecstasy of which few of us are capable. Beside these, the easy sob-stuff of to day's cults is too facile. I once saw a bumper-sticker in Boulder, Colo., where it is needed, which asked of the "Jesus freaks" the kind of question which the in-quisition itself asked many of the "Jesus freaks" of its day: "If Jesus is the answer, what is the question?"

'And I once looked up from a desk in a university library in Texas to see the graffito scribbled on the wall: "If God is dead, who will save the Queen?", a question that so unnerved me that I could not work for the rest of the day.

Facile Communication

But my point is that these wry ques tions seem to me to honor the idea of God
— whether we believe that He exists or not more than those who claim a facile communication with Him, with little evidence of effort or pain.

As the presidential candidates this year announce their conversions, one by one, you begin to wonder if there has been anything like it since a Chinese general baptized his army with a hose.

When they're too old for toys

who has complained that it is reaching the stage in this campaign when one is unequipped to report it unless one has been to a theological seminary or at least a Baptist Sunday school.

Ah, it will be said, much of what you say is true, but the "religious issue" (as it has been dignified) reflects a concern about the deep spiritual malaise of the American people at this moment. When I hear talk of a "deep spiritual malaise" in a political context, my hackles rise. It means that any moment now, the American people will be offered a "sense of purpose," and off they will be once more, to save the world. One of my mentors in politics has been Harold Macmillan which is one reason why I quote him so often — the other is that he is so quotable. When he was being accused in 1963 of having failed to give Britain a "sense of purpose," a phrase which has crossed the Atlantic from the campaign of John Kennedy, he said to me: "if people want a sense of purpose, they should get it from their archbishops."

"But we don't have any archbishops, many Americans have said to me i response. "That's why we look to our

And one American put it even more vividly to me: "Apart from our politicians, that's one reason why we create new churches every decade. It was economics in the 1930s — psychology in the 1940s — management in the 1950s sociology in the 1960s . . . " and then he hesitated

'And in the 1970s?" I asked. "That's perhaps the most depressing of "he responded. "We seem to be back o the idea of personal salvation - and when that idea gets loose in the land, it is so rudderless, there's no telling where we society too easily becomes a form only of personal indulgence: eat health foods, earn to kayak, do weaving, make leather belts, embroider them, embroider everything, strew flowers in one's path and make sure that one knows one's mantra. What a recipe for life — and all those students who flock to see rather than to hear, for there is not much to hear - Jerry Brown are reflections exactly of his own ecstatic torpor. But there is another reason why the idea of personal salvation should be resisted when it is brought into the political arena. One simply ages not know where its dictates will carry a man when he is in office.

A man who closes his eyes several times a day to ask God to let him do what is right is all too likely to close them at least once too often and hear God telling him that he is doing right — just because that is what he wants to hear — and go waving his sword all over the place, like Joan of Arc.

It is also not true that he is terrified of running into old flame Helen Hutchison on a subway platform at rush hour. A man who snaps his fingers at J. V. Clyne is not easily daunted.

The reason he stays put is

It was once said of Bernard Shaw that he had no enemies and none of his friends liked him. It would, of course, be grossly inaccurate to turn that around and say of Fotheringham that he has no friends and none of his enemies like him. funds, if withdrawn for the designated purpose, can be taken out without paying tax. The main buyers of RHOPs are older people looking for a penses. A pension of $400 may look good in 1976 but it might produce only a bare subsistance level in 1980. In addition to the concern, there is the great benefit of contributing to a RRSP when close to retirement.

for those with company pensions and $5,500 for the selfemployed or those working for companies that do not have pension plans.

Most wage earners qualify for the $3,500 limit. If they contribute $1,500 per year to a company plan, they can take out an RRSP of up to $2,000 per year under the new regulations. This will produce a total tax rebate of something close to $1,000 in cash, up from $600 under the old limits. Professional and other self-employed people will be able to take out an annual plan of $5,500 each year, up from $4,000, but trust companies are concerned that few Victorians will be able to handle the full amount.

If they do borrow, however, the interest they pay can be written off in full as an additional tax deduction. This applies to all purchases of RRSPs.

The new limits will produce an even bigger boom in RRSP sales next January and Feb-ruary, according to trust company predictions.

Meanwhile, the sales of the registered home ownership program are expected to continue in the doldrums. Trust companies report that very few young couples are taking advantage of the tax deduction, although they are the group the legislation was intended to help.

The RHOP enables a young couple to put aside $1,000 per year per person (if they do not own a house) for a total of 10 years and the funds can then be withdrawn to buy or

And very few are interested because the limit is $1,000 per year compared to the higher limit available under the RRSP program.

The RHOP program has become a tax dodge for a few but otherwise pretty much of a failure.

By contrast, the registered retirement savings plan has become almost too popular. Ottawa estimates that the budget tax changes will cost it $75 million in revenue this year, although the first statement of the statement of t

Housing Mystery Clearing

By DON VIPOND Times Staff

A Vancouver developer today lifted some of the mystery surrounding a blg housing proposal at Triangle Mountain - including where 45,000 gallons of sewage a day from it would go.

of Quadrant Development Ltd., said his company has in mind a development of 100 to 200 houses on about 108 acres between Fulton and Latoria Roads in Colwood.

But the proposal is not yet complete and has yet to go to the highways department, which has authority over subdivisions in electoral areas.

The Capital Region Board decided Wednesday to oppose an application by Quadrant to the Pollution Control Branch for a permit allowing the discharge of 45,000 gallons of sewage a day.

Directors were told the re-gion has no details on what Quadrant has in mind for the Triangle Mountain property. Triangle Mountain property.

Union Risks Breakup-Controller

By ROB BULL

Times Quebec Bureau MONTREAL - Members of the Canadian Air Traffic Con-trollers Association may not realize it but if they decide to realize it but it they decide to go out on strike May 31 to protest federal bilingual con-trol procedures in Quebec they run a serious risk of breaking up their union.

Jean-Luc Patenaude, Quebec regional director for CATCA said in an interview "I find it unfortunate that the dispute has reached a point where Quebec controllers have had to give up their rights as trade unionists in the fight for better working conditions in order to fight for

If a strike is held, Patenaude says it will not be over wages. "The two sides are only one per cent apart on

Captain Jean Guertin of Quebecair, a pilot with 23 years experience five of them in the RCAF, finds the federal government's approach to bilingualism in air traffic control in Quebec to be a reasonable one.

Guertin, who is director of the airline pilots section of the Association des Gens de l'Aire which groups French Canadians in the industry says "we don't want to institute the use of French et airports owiside. of French at airports outside Quebec and we don't want to abolish the use of English in

Do you prefer lightweight suits? With the advent of warmer weather, most men are looking for lighter fabrics in their suits, although many men prefer lighter garments all year round, particularly in Victoria's climate.

toria's climate.

The lightest family of suitings is called "tropicals." They approximate 6 to 7 ozs per square yard. They are seldom seen in Canada, even in summer, because of our higher humidity conditions. Recommended lightweights for this market run 9½ to 11½ ozs per yard. They have enough body to hold their shape and also are more wrinkle-resistant than the tropicals. Samuelsohn has developed an outstanding range of lightweights. They are doing exciting things with a 100% Spanish wool that is only 11 ozs in weight and comes in a variety of natterns.

The disadvantage of lightweight cloth is that it wrinkles relatively easily, but Samuelsohn has developed an 11-12-02. fabric called Easi-care: 52% wood and 48% polyester, which is remarkably wrinkleresistant. This results from the combination of a close weave and a balanced blend of good fabrics.

Grinn, Gordon Stewart, Dave Weicker and Pril, Olsen. Yakubowich is probably the best known. She won a gold medal in the 400 metres at the Pan-Am Games in Mexico last year; she captured a second running gold as the anchor leg of the winning Canadian 4 x 400 metre relay team and she took a bronze as a member of Canada's 4 x 100 metre relay the goal.

The next Shamrock counter was legitimate, rookie Dan Green scoring with a backhander on a pass from Ranjit Dillon, but then came another giveaway, by Thomas. The Adanac goalkeeper rushed to centre floor in an attempt to snare a loose ball, but Jerry Kustaski beat him to the ball and fired it into the unguarded net. That was the fourth Irish goal in just two minutes and nice seconds and gave them a 14-10 lead.

Twice the As got to within one goal of the Rocks as they scored on three power plays and one shorthanded goal but the Rocks managed to hold the margin safe.

Ron MacNiel tallied a shorthanded goal for the Irish with his team leading 14-13 and that proved to be the winner. Jeevan Dillon added the clincher at 16:54.

MacNeil had four goals and four assists and was named the game's first star, while Kustaski had his best night of the season with two goals and Mike Beaulac and Thomson each had a pair. Dave Durante had five goals for the As, Bryan three and Moe Jo-doin and Mike Mitzel a pair.

In Vancouver, Nanaimo took an early 5-2 lead, saw Burrards even the count at 11-11, then camp on to get two late goals to win. Andy Reid scored the winner at 17:34.

Bob Wasson and Bill Kirkland had three-goal efforts for Nanaimo while goalkeeper John Lewis stopped 38 shots in a sound performance. Wayne Sutherland had two roals for the Timbermen

ORCHARD PESTS 'OUT OF HAND'

VERNON (CP) - Serious crop losses and heavy expenses resulting from pest infestations from orchards left unattended by developers are being felt by Okanagan fruit growers.

Bob Davison, a BCFGA spokesman sailt some orchardists have suffered 50-per-cent crop losses and others must double insecticide costs to ruit growers.

The problem "is out of hand" and protective regulations are needed, a British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association (BCFGA) spokesman told the North Okanagan regional district Wednesday. Removing all fruit trees dists.

Tangy Salt-Rising Bread

Salt-rising bread is another of those regional American dishes for which some people have a passion and which inspire in others something short of aversion. The bread is made by a natural fermentation, and for a period it is a bit malodorous. The finished product is a bit tangy with a flavor which is at times de-flavor which is at times de-scribed as "cheese-like."

Jennifer Johnson of Manha-tan writes, "I was reared in the mountains of southwest. the mountains of southwest Virginia where a weekend breakfast often included country ham, eggs, fried apples, and either biscuits or salt-rising toast. My taste buds had long since forgotten how delicious salt-risig or salt-risen (as it is vtriously called) toast could be until I encountered it again on a recept business trip to Tennessee. It seems to be available there in practically every large grocery store unevery large grocery store un-der the brand name of a local bakery or chain store.

"My inquiries in supermar-kets in New York City, however, have all met with a 'never h eard of such a tring."

Do you know of any source in the city for salt-rising bread?"

Unfortunately, we have never known of a commercial source for salt-rising bread north of the Mason-Dixon line nor, for that matter, since our childhood in the South. For the ambitious and nostalgically inclined, however, here is a

The most common mechanical and structural problems are brake failure, wobbling or disengagement of the wheel or steering mechanism; difficulty in shifting gears; chain slippage; pedals falling off and spoke breakage.

It goes on to point out that "a bicycle is not exempt from any of the traffic laws and signals that apply to automobiles" ... and because a bicycle is a more fragile mode of transportation "par-

How many times have you decided to quit smoking?

the straight under the About Cholestern

At one time or another most people who smoke talk about giving it up.

Some, we don't know how many, actually stop. Others are simply not ready to lose forever the enjoyment a cigarette can bring.

If you are one of those who still value the pleasure of smoking, you might want to consider Vantage.

When you smoke Vantage you get the full, rich flavour of Virginia tobaccos. The unique Vantage filter, which is based on a new design concept, lets real taste come through. Vantage gives you so much of what you want in a cigarette with a lot less of what you don't want.

Vantage is not a heavy drag cigarette. You don't have to work hard getting the smoke through so that all the joy of smoking is lost.

Rich taste and easy draw. Good reasons for any thoughtful smoker to consider the new cigarette called Vantage.

We suggest you try a pack.

By now, almost everyone has heard that a high level of cholesterol in the blood is bad for your heart. And many people realize that a high level of triglycerides also may play a role in the development of heart disease. But many peoneart disease. But many peo-ple still are confused and unure about what cholesterol and triglycerides are and how they affect the heart. So let me try to clarify the mattrer without adding to the con-

Both Cholesterol and trigly-cerides are fats — that is, lipids. Cholesterol is a sterol which is a complex molecule present, in one form or an-other, in both plant and ani-mal tissues. Cholesterol itself is not found in plants, but it is part of every animal cell. It is especially high in eggs, liver, other organ meats and shell-number of important body processes, including nerve function and the production of bile acids and steroid hor-mones. However it is not necessary to actually get your cholesterol from eating it, be-cause the liver can manufac-ture all that the body needs. In fact, dietary cholesterol may contribute to a high blood cholesterol.

Excessive cholesterol appears to play a role in the development of atherosclerotic heart disease, which involves a narrowing of the cornary arteries. For as yet unknown reasons, plaques slowly begin to form on the inner walls of the arteries.

Waxy cholesterol is the major component of these deposits, which gradually grow tough and fibrous, and may eventually harden and be-come chalklike. They narrow the passageway for blood, and make the artery wall inelas-tic, so that it cannot expand enough to allow for the in-creased demand for blood when, say, you run to catch the bus or engage in some other vigorous activity.

Triglycerides are the most important members of the lipid family. They are made up of three molecules of fatty acids, which are attached to one molecule of glycerol (thus the "tri" prefix). Triglycerides may contain any com-bination of three kinds of fatty acids: saturated, mon-oun-saturated or polyunsa-turated. The saturated fatty acids contain all the hydrogen have two less atoms of hydro

Most of our reserve body energy is stored in the form of triglycerides. In all, 90 per cent of our body fat and 98 per cent ofthef at we eat is triglycerides. The saturated fatty acids, which we get mostly from animal f oods, hasten the development of atheroscelerosis, wheras the poluyunsaturates seem to repoluyunsaturates seem to retard it. Monounsaturated fatty acids, on the other hand, have ined little effect, one way or the type.

When the level of cholesterol and triglycerides in the blood is consitently above a certain point, we say a person suffers from hyperlipidemia, or high blood lipids. For cholesterol, that point is at or above 220 milligrams per 100 are further broken down into primary and secondary types. "Secondary" types are those that are brought on by another disease, such as inactive thyroid, an obstructive liver disorder, kidney disease or diabetes. In these cases the primary hyperself for suffers from hyperlipidemia, or high blood lipids. For cholesterol, that point is at or above 220 milligrams per 100 milliliters of blood, and for triglycerides, it is usually 140 milligrams.

Now, this does not mean that anyone with lower lipid levels is automatically safe from atherosclerosis — gener-ally speaking, the lower the safer. Age and other factors also are taken into consideration in diagnosing hyperlipi-

 ½ tsp. salt
 ½ tsp. white pepper.

In a medium large pot melt the fat or butter or mar-garine and add onion and saute gently until soaked. DO NOT BROWN.

Add potatoes, hot water and chicken cube or sachet and simmer covered until potatoes are tender — about 15. to 20 minutes. Add corn, milk, salt and pepper and bring to just below boiling point and serve. This soup is filling. To make it into a main course item you could serve it with homemade cheese or onion bread or cheese tea biscuits.

An Aristocrat of Cakes

A few years ago there was quite a flurry of letters telling me readers were having trouble making chiffon cakes. I must quickly add it was NOT my recipe that was at fault. So I did tests and corrected their troubles.

Now we have made a Chocolate Chiffon Cake and it is a dandy big cake — fills a sfandard angel food cake pan OR 2 or 3-layer cake tins.

If you follow each direction, step by step, you will produce size of lid.

Examine jars, lids and screw bands varefully and discard any damaged ones. Replace metal screw bands after they have been used many times, as they tend to stretch and eventually, may not seal properly. Always use new metal rubber-edged lids or new rubber rings to ensure step by step, you will produce a professional cake.

Guilty Plea in Drug Case

two counts of possession of narcotics for trafficking were found in a motel room raided by police shortly after mid-night Jan. 27, Victoria county court was told Wednesday.

Sgt. Edward Kokoska and Constable Douglas Morrison of the RCMP were testifying at the trial of Irene Janine Jolin, 20, Lori Elizabeth Knight, 17, and Wendell Sin-clair Lewis, 25.

Alain Rosaire LaForest, 25, pleaded guilty Tuesday andwas remanded in custody until June 23 for sentence. The indictment said the drugs were codeine and pethidine

Both policemen said LaFor-

The Bridge Expert

Possibly the greatest thrill that can come to bridge players arises in a team match when one half of the team-of-four, sitting, let us say, North-South, bids and makes a game. And, when the deal is replayed, their partners, sitting East-West on the same deal, also bid and make a game. Such was the situation in a recent team-of-four championship event.

Once ferns are established, they need only an occasional water spraying during our dry summers.

water spraying during our dry summers.

Accompanying color plants should be kept to a minimum for ease of maintenance but there should be no lack of beauty if columbines are allowed to grow as they will throughout the fern area.

These plants, listed as aquilegias in catalogues and most garden books, may be either the long spurred hybrids of many pastel and vivid colors, or a one-colored species such as Aquilegia caerulea. The latter is a foot high, lovely, dark violet blue with short curved spurs. Squilegia chrysantha and A. formosa are santha and A. formosa are two natives of British Columbia, the first with long spurs and yellow flowers, the second with short spurs and red and yellow flowers. These are all delightful plants for either rocky areas or edges of shaded borders as well as going well with ferns.

You may need to look in an alpine garden specialist's catalogue for the seeds, or buy a plant to begin your stock. The foliage of all columbines is spreading and lacy, flower stems come freely from established plants, and blossoms last well in shade or where long hours of sunlight do not reawh them. You will have blooms from May right on through the summer in the shaded spot with ferns.

Seedlings appear which can be moved around to suit your ideas. Your little homemade woodland area of neglected soil will become a fairyland of blue flowers, brown soil and green fern fronds.

Before long, you build a wooden seat nearby to enjoy the beauty you have helped create out of a piece of poor ground in shade.

strike action to back their contract demands, union spokesman Fred Trotter announced Wednesday.

He said the strong strike mandate relfects the 3,300 workers' concern that they have had no salary increase since April, 1975.

plans to take strike action, Trotter said. He is president of Local 378 of the Office and Technical Employees Union.

He said mediation hearings under the auspices of provincial mediator Charles Stewart.

are still far apart on wage proposals, with the union demanding a total increase of 19.7 per cent over 22 months. B.C. Hydro has offered a wage boost of 6½ per cent to a maximum of $73 a month.

"We are attempting to maintain our relativity with other hydro, workers," said Trotter. "Historically, our sa-laries have been related."

'Progress' At Rail Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) - Jack Whittaker, chairman of the Joint Council of B.C. Rail Unions, said he believed some progress was made Wednes-day during the first day of a B.C. Labor Relations Board

The hearing is being held to determine whether the layoffs violate the terms of collective agreements between the crown-owned railway and the various rail unions.

Whittaker said the chair-man of the hearing, lawyer John Bagent, has said the hearings will continue through Saturday if necessary. He said both sides have agreed to until the hearings are con-

Whittaker claimed that 2,800 of the railway's 3,100 Hugh Armstrong said only 2,300 have been laid off. Meanwhile, a lumber mill in

The two B.C. Ferries unions are counting strike ballots today, but a threatened walkout on June 1 appears to have been averted, union officials

Cliff Andstein, co-ordinator for the two marine components of the B.C. Government Employees Union, said the two unions Wednesday proposed some new "initiatives" to the ferry management which should avert the June 1

The proposals will not be disclosed until management replies, he said, probably later today.

Results of the strike votes by the 2,800 general ferry workers and the 750 officers will be released Friday.

The dispute centres hours of work and planned layoffs of 420 workers June 1 as a cost-cutting measure for the ferry system

Meanwhile, the slowdown campaign which has delayed ferry sailings since last Fri-day is continuing, Ferries from Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen were sailing about 30 minutes late today as ferry officers continue time consuming safety checks.

Saudis Opposing Oil Hike

Saudi Arabia today opposed any increase in the price of oil for the rest of the year as the oil cartel opened another price-setting meeting.

Observers expect an increase of five to 10 per cent in 'the base price.

'We oppose any increase in price, and we have a very strong position on that,"
Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed
Zaki Yamani told reporters at 'the opening of a three-day meeting of the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries porting Countries.

Yamani said OPEC's current base price should be maintained until the end of

1 by 10 per cent to $11.51 a barrel and agreed to a price freeze until the end of June as a compromise between Iran's demand for a 15 per cent in-crease and Saudi opposition to any increase.

France Eyes Call-Up For Girls

PARIS (Reuter) - Women's Affairs Minister Fran-coise Giroud disclosed radical plans Wednesday to change the status of women in France, including national service for girls.

Mrs. Giroud's proposals, covering feminist complaints from birth to old age, are designed to end sex discrimination laws going back to Na proved by the cabinet, but must still be passed by Parliament.

One of the proposals is that girls leaving school or about to enter university should spend four to six months in national community service.

Mrs. Giroud said this was one way of treating girls on an equal footing with boys who do national military ser-vice. It would also help girls face "the realities of life by joint management of assets by husband and wife and the right of a woman to dispose freely of her income.

the budget measures.

Conservative leader Joe
Clark challenged Macdonald to explain how national unemployment will be reduced when the budget forecast only 250,000 new jobs this year.

The labor force grew by more than 360,000 last year.

The finance minister said the economic slowdown now ending was world-wide, and an anticipated recovery will lead to more exports this year that will stimulate economic activity and relieve unem ployment.

Clark, he added, "repeats a little dishonesty" when he suggests that Canada's ecoport markets.

AIR FARE HIKES SEEN AS FUEL COST JUMPS

MONTREAL (CP)-Price increases decreed by the federal government for Canadian crude oil will raise Air Canada's fuel bill and "will inevitably require higher fares," the president of the publicly-owned airline said Wednesday.

Claude Taylor said in a statement that the price increase would add $4.8 million to this airline's fuel bill this year bringing total fuel costs for 1976 to nearly $193 million.

He said further oil-price increases set for 1977 will raise Air Canada's fuel costs another $21.8 million next year.

Although the airline raised its fares by eight per cent in April, that did not take account of possible fuel price increases, Taylor said.

The government recently announced an increase of $1.05 a barrel in the well-head price of Canadian crude oil effective July 1, 1976. The price will increase a further 70 cents per barrel in March, 1977.

In a telegram sent to senior officers of all unions affiliated with the 2.3-million-member CLC, Mr. Montgomery said the CLC national convention last week gave congress execu tives authority to conduct "a general work stoppage or stoppages, if and when necessary" in the battle against the federal anti-inflation program of selective wage and price
